

THE DUBLIN REVIEW.

---

With the 110th Volume will begin a NEW SERIES of "the historic" DUBLIN REVIEW, improved in type and general appearance.

Its past volumes contain the fullest record and appreciation that exists of Catholic publications, and of English literature during more than half a century.

The DUBLIN REVIEW deals not only with the serious problems which underlie modern society and with the religious movements of the day, but with a great variety of topics, historical, antiquarian, and modern, which are of interest to Catholics.

It employs men of science to furnish Quarterly Notices of the most interesting scientific discoveries; it keeps a careful record of the explorations of travellers; calls attention to a selected number of current works of fiction; notices the principal German, French, and Italian periodicals, and gives copious reviews of books, Catholic and miscellaneous.

New Subscribers are earnestly requested to send in their Orders without delay, so as to secure this first number of the New Series before the edition is exhausted.

---

PUBLISHERS:

Messrs. BURNS and OATES Ltd, Orchard Street, London.

JAMES DONOVAN, 19, Henrietta Street, Covent Garden.

M. H. GILL and SON, Dublin.

---

All Advertisements to be sent not later than the middle of the Month prior to issue to JAMES DONOVAN, as above.

Annual Subscription, payable in advance, 21s.

Single Number, 6s.

THE CARBOLIC SMOKE BALL

WILL POSITIVELY CURE

INFLUENZA

Cured in 24 hours.

COLDS

Cured in 12 hours.

CATARRH

Cured in 1 to 3 months.

ASTHMA

Relieved in 10 minutes.

BRONCHITIS

Cured in every case.

HOARSENESS

Cured in 12 hours.

LOSS OF VOICE

Fully restored.

SORE THROAT

Cured in 12 hours.

FREE TRIALS AT OUR CONSULTING ROOMS.

FOR INHALATION ONLY.

THROAT

DEAFNESS

Cured in 1 to 4 months.

SNORING

Cured by inhaling at bedtime.

CROUP

Relieved in 5 minutes.

WHOOPIING

COUGH

Relieved the first application.

NEURALGIA

Cured in 10 minutes.

HEADACHE

Cured in 10 minutes.

THE

CARBOLIC SMOKE BALL

As prescribed by Sir Morell Mackenzie, M.D.,

Has been supplied to

HIS EMINENCE CARDINAL MANNING, Archbishop of Westminster.

H.R.H. The Duke of Edinburgh, K.G.

The Duke of Norfolk.

H.R.H. The Duke of Connaught, K.G.

The Marquis of Ripon, K.G.

TESTIMONIALS.

The DUKE OF PORTLAND writes: "I am much obliged for the Carbolic Smoke Ball which you have sent me, and which I find very efficacious."

DR. J. COLBOURNE, M.D., writes from 60, Maddox Street, London, W., 1st May, 1891: "I can very highly recommend the Carbolic Smoke Ball from observing its usefulness in quite a large number of cases, principally catarrhal affections of nose, pharynx, larynx, and bronchial tubes."

DR. J. RUSSELL HARRISS, M.D., writes from 6, Adam Street, Adelphi, 24th September, 1890: "Many obstinate cases of post nasal catarrh, which have resisted other treatment, have yielded to your Carbolic Smoke Ball."

One CARBOLIC SMOKE BALL will last a family several months, making it the cheapest remedy in the world at the price—10s., post free.

The CARBOLIC SMOKE BALL can be refilled, when empty, at a cost of 5s., post free.

ADDRESS:

CARBOLIC SMOKE BALL COMPANY,

27, Princes Street, Hanover Square, London, W.

CONTENTS.

---

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | PAGE. |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------|
| I.—ENGLAND'S DEVOTION TO ST. PETER DURING A THOUSAND YEARS . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 243   |
| The English School at Rome—Its provision by the Popes—Its purpose—Its direction—Its freedom from Papal taxation—Its destruction by fire, and its restoration by Æthelwulf—Its survival in the Hospital of S. Spirito, and the renewal of its object in the English College—Public law on Peter-pence—Origin of Peter-pence—Its antiquity—Records of payment—Method, time, and enforcement of payment—Legislation on Peter-pence after the conquest—Yearly composition—Amount of assessment for various dioceses in the thirteenth century—Its collection from the Archdeaconries—Papal testimony to the willingness of the English people in paying it—Its survival after the Reformation—Its revival by the Catholics of England. |       |
| II.—THE MOSAIC AUTHORSHIP OF THE PENTATEUCH . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 264   |
| Anglican change of attitude—Dr. Driver's "Introduction to the literature of the Old Testament"—The three-fold element of the Pentateuch—The Priests' Code—The J. E.—The date of J. E.—The date of Deuteronomy—Use by Moses of previously existing documents—Character of Mosaic authorship—Dr. Driver's view of Deuteronomy considered—His inclusion of the Book of Joshua with the Pentateuch—Conclusion.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |       |
| III.—SIX MONTHS AT THE GRANDE CHARTREUSE . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 282   |
| Approach to the monastery—Entry into the noviciate and ceremony of reception—The cell—The cell within a cell—Reception of the monastic habit—The order of a ferial day—The order of a feast day—The weekly walk—Carthusian conversation—The Carthusian spirit—The fibre of Carthusian asceticism—A Russian general and a French captain of artillery—A Carthusian death-bed.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |       |

|       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |     |
|-------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| IV.—  | ANGLICAN WRITERS AND THE COUNCIL OF EPHESUS.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 296 |
|       | The Council as a test of the Anglican theory—Vital nature of the question with which the Council was concerned—The position of Nestorius—The correspondence between Alexandria and Rome—The action of St. Celestine in harmony with that of previous Popes—Points contained in the letters of St. Celestine and St. Cyril—the force of St. Celestine's judgment—Rome the "Apostolic See"—Meaning of the term—Dr. Pusey and Canon Bright upon St. Celestine—Apostolic authority of all bishops held in common, but not in equal measure—Origins of Nestorian errors—Nestorius and Julian—The convoking of the Council—Opening of the Council—Its presidency—The position of St. Cyril—The Imperial decree set aside—Conclusion. |     |
| V.—   | PROTESTANTISM IN ENGLAND                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 325 |
|       | English religious divisions after the Restoration—Methodism—The parentage of present sections of Anglican Communion—Vandalism of Protestantism under Elizabeth—Calvinism under episcopal government—Reaction from Genevan dogmatism; James I. and the "divine right" doctrine—Anti-Catholic bigotry of the seventeenth century.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |     |
| VI.—  | THEOSOPHY AND ITS EVIDENCES                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 337 |
|       | The inappropriateness of its name—Its demand for the removal of pre-conceived notions—The Mahatmas—The out-breathing and in-breathing of Para-Brahm—The "First Cause" that is not a First Cause—Spirit and matter—Sparks of spirit struggling for consciousness—How to become a Mahatma—"Gnanis"—"Astral light"—"Karma"—The three sense and four-sense Continents—The evidence for the system—Mrs. Besant's account of it—Criticism of Theosophical doctrine—A Theosophical "Marvel"—Criticism of the Evidence.                                                                                                                                                                                                                |     |
| VII.— | THE IRISH AT NANTES                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 351 |
|       | Bishop O'Keefe—An information—A dimissorial letter—A petition—Bishop O'Keefe's foundation of burses—The Authorisation of the University of Nantes for the Irish Seminary—Gallican influence on the Irish Church—Irish ecclesiastics in France—The Persecution at Nantes.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |     |

VIII.—AN ASPECT OF THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION . . . 363

The character of intoxicants a neglected item in many discussions of the Temperance Question—The Commission of July, 1890—Its composition—The Commissions in France, Germany, Italy—Evidence given before the Commission—Italian and French researches into nature of ptomaines—Accuracy of popular opinion that effects of intemperance depend on character of drink consumed—Impracticability of establishing standards of purity—Effect of spirit consumption upon an under-fed people—The mischief of illicit distillation.

IX. — SOME PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF CARDINAL MANNING WHEN ARCHDEACON OF CHICHESTER 372

His appearance—A visit to Lavington—His advice—Confession—The effect of the Gorham case—His attachment to Anglicanism.

X.—EPISODES OF THE LIFE OF CARDINAL MANNING IN HIS ANGLICAN DAYS . . . . . 380

His relations with members of his family—Materials for his biography—The secret of his supposed love of power—His theory of the continuity of his Anglican and Catholic life—Recent biographies—Episode I., from Lavington to Rome—His presentment to the Rectory of Lavington—His part at public meetings—His pastoral work—Episode II., the elect of God—His attachment to the Church of England—His imperviousness to argument—His bereavement—Episode III., the passage out of Evangelicalism—Controversy with the Dublin Review—Episode IV., his first word on Papal Infallibility—The rule of Faith—Episode V., his Fifth of November Sermon at St. Mary's, Oxford—Episode VI., the Half-Way-House at Lavington, 1845-7—His rallying of the Tractarians—Episode VII., a Spiritual Retreat—Rome in '48—His diary—Episode IX., Wrestling with the Angels of the Lord—The Hampden appointment and the Gorham Judgment—The no-Popery cry of 1851—The Church of England revealing herself—the end.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |     |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| SCIENCE NOTICES . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 437 |
| International Meteorological Conference—The FrankfortElectrical Exhibition—Artificial rain-making—Exclu-sion of dust—The Crystal Palace Electrical Exhibition—The new star in the Milky way—Lunar photo-graphy—A great Sun-spot.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |     |
| NOTES OF TRAVEL AND EXPLORATION . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 450 |
| Captain Younghusband's journey in the Pamirs—Aperilous passage—Vast mountains and glaciers—ARussian traveller in India—A Pre-historic cemetery—A new industry in Argentina—Recent views onMashonaland—A hunter's paradise—The table-landof Mashona country—The Ant as a Fertiliser—Theruined city of Zimbabwe—Rabbit plague in N. S.Wales—Proposed Communistic settlement in Africa—Travels in rural Russia—Earthquakes in Japan.                                                                                                        |     |
| NOTES ON NOVELS . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 468 |
| NOTICES OF GERMAN PERIODICALS . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 461 |
| BOOK NOTICES . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 471 |
| Succat, by Mgr. Gradwell—N.S. Jésus Christ, by AbbéFretté—O Roma nobilis—The Lord of Humanity—Life of Fr. Hecker—The apology of Aristides—Life ofGeneral de Sonis—Ireland and St. Patrick, by Rev.W. B. Morris—Ballads and Lyrics, by KatherineTynan—Meditations on the life of Our Lord, by Rev.J. Nouet—Bishop Wilberforce—Die ChristlichenInscriften der Rheinlande—Rituale Romanum—The Lord's Supper and the Passover Ritual—DieSentenzen Rolands—The Wisdom and Wit of BlessedThomas More, by Rev. T. E. Bridgett, C.S.S.R. |     |